1. Abstract

Crypto is becoming increasingly known as a frictionless avenue to launch a viable product or business. The movement from Web 2.0 to Web 3.0 offers many developers the opportunity to launch proven technologies and software on the blockchain with a first mover advantage. One of these technologies awaiting tokenization is reward programs and apps. Many companies offer rewards for loyalty in the form of discounts or points. The points earned can be used to buy products or use the services of that company. One would assume this technology is merely awaiting the switch to Web 3.0.

2. Intro To FitScript

FitScript is a community driven project that launched their MVP on the Binance Smart Chain. FitScript was created to capture the fitness market and safely onboard a new community to the Web 3.0 revolution. After successfully attracting thousands of application users and early supporters, FitScript is ready for the next step forward. Under the leadership of a doxed development team, FitScript will set standards in transparency and offer true utility in the crypto market.

2.1 Mission Statement

FitScript strives to set a new standard for development and leadership in the tokenization revolution while creating tangible value and longevity in a space that is solely reliant on the network effect.

2.2 Inspiration For FitScript

FitScript was inspired by a team of developers that chose to incorporate health and fitness awareness while playing a major role in the onboarding of Web 3.0. This led FitScript developers to the untapped crypto Fitness market. Ultimately, FitScript as a mobile application rewards users for their time spent at the gym.

Motivation is hard for many people in their fitness journey. FitScript not only allows users to earn FitScript tokens, but it incorporates a geofencing technology that is frictionless in mass adoption. Any workout you can dream up, will allow you to collect and mine your way to fitness at the gym.

FitScript will be driven by the community and led by the developers. The early community has provided funding for the team developers to launch and survey the initial MVP. Upon further investigation it has become clear the FitScript mobile application will sell itself, and our community will help each and everyday spreading the word of the new and first of its kind technology. The community will offer our project graphics, marketing strategies, web3 developers, and ultimately an ecosystem that will flourish. Without our community, FitScript will not reach its maximum potential. The health and lives of our community is not a joke, and neither is FitScript. Together we will take this utility to the next level.
